A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT:

Dear PEF Member,

Fulfilling the educational needs of PEF members is a commitment that PEF takes very seriously. We know that through continuing education our members can achieve greater career mobility and promotional opportunities. In addition, in this era of significant changes in the state workforce, continuing education is becoming a necessity for our members just to maintain their current state jobs.

We are very proud of the educational benefits that we have been able to provide to our members through the Public Service Training Program (PSTP). This joint labor management program has become an innovative leader in the effort to provide educational opportunities through a consumer sensitive education marketplace.

This guide was designed to assist you in understanding and accessing the complex financial aid programs in order to supplement your PEF education benefits.

I hope that you find this guide helpful and that you are able to take advantage of these additional financial aid programs to meet your educational needs for the workforce of the future.

Sincerely,

A NOTE TO PEF WORKERS

This financial aid handbook was written especially for you - the full-time worker and part-time student. We know it is hard to work, to go to school, and juggle family and personal responsibilities. It is especially difficult for those who are being affected by any Reduction in Force. We congratulate you for considering further education as an option in this situation. This brochure is designed to help you obtain additional financial resources beyond that which may be available from your PEF contractual educational benefits.

The GOOD NEWS is that you may be qualified for some State or Federal non-repayable grants and educational loans, if you are a degree student. As an example, under current guidelines, if you have a New York State net taxable income of $50,550 or less, you may be eligible for Aid for Part-Time Study (APTS) each term.

The down side is that finding out about the aid programs you might be eligible for and filling out the required forms can be time consuming. Don't be scared off by the paperwork and the process. With the use of this booklet and the help available from new internet websites and the Financial Aid Office at your school, you can get the financial help you are entitled to. Remember, your taxes have been paying for these programs for years; now it's your turn to collect!

The benefits described in this booklet, (contractual, state, and federal) are available June 2000. However, funding for these benefits is continually changing and for the most up-to-date information, contact the PEF Education and Training Department or the Higher Education Services Corporation.

These are some of the best buys in financial aid. There are many other programs that you may hear about, but they may be restricted to students in particular fields of study or educational programs. An absolute must when seeking financial help is to talk with the financial aid counselor at your school to determine those programs to which you should apply.

Besides government sponsored programs, there may be other programs sponsored by your agency or by private organizations that might help you. Many colleges have small grant and scholarship programs funded by local groups that may be designed for adult learners.

For example, you may find your agency has a tuition reimbursement program or that small grants are available from the local Business Women's Association, Chamber of Commerce, or a local fraternal group like the Lion's Club. Check with any organizations to which you (or your spouse) belong. Spend some time with your school financial aid counselor to make sure you're not missing out on anything for which you might be eligible.

W A R N I N G !!

You may receive unsolicited material from commercial scholarship search companies that seem to promise free money for a small fee. These companies will ask for $50 to $100 to search for scholarships for you. Most of what they identify are either the same programs described in this guide or very obscure private scholarships for which only a rare few individuals are eligible. Before you invest in one of these searches, read the fine print and talk to a financial aid counselor. Free scholarship searches are available on the web. Go to www.nymentor.edu; www.mapping-your-future.com; or www.nasfaa.com (click on "college quest").

WHAT KIND OF EXPENSES WILL FINANCIAL AID COVER?

Although a few financial aid programs such as Aid for Part-Time Study (APTS) and the Tuition Assistance Program (TAP) are restricted to covering tuition costs only, most student financial aid programs will provide coverage for the following expenses:

TUITION: This is the cost of course instruction. It covers the teaching of the course.

FEES: Each college will have an array of mandatory and optional fees. You can generally eliminate the optional fees, but must pay the mandatory fees. Of course, do not hesitate to ask if any of the fees can be waived.

BOOKS: Books can be very expensive depending on the courses you are taking. Try to buy used books from other students or the bookstore, or even check with the Library to see if they can be checked out.

COMMUTING EXPENSES: These will include the obvious, like gas and oil for the car, or public transportation costs, but may also include parking fees on campus, as well as a meal or snack at the college.

PERSONAL EXPENSES: These vary from student to student, but might include simple expenses like snacks or supplies.

Make sure you understand all of the costs when enrolling in a course and make sure you have enough funds to start the semester with books, supplies, and travel even if your tuition costs are being paid for by financial aid programs.

Many colleges will defer payment of all or part of your college bill until financial aid is received; but only assistance from government, employer, or PEF benefits (i.e. PSTP Voucher or Voucher Alternative).

CALL AHEAD FOR AN APPOINTMENT

You want to meet with a professional financial aid counselor, not a receptionist or other office worker. By calling for an appointment, you are assured of not being hurried or catching the counselor at a time when he or she is busy and distracted.

BRING COPIES OF FEDERAL AND STATE TAX RETURNS WITH YOU

The most recent copies of the federal and state tax returns contain almost all of the information the aid counselor will need to give you an accurate estimate of your eligibility.

BE OPEN AND COMPLETELY HONEST WITH THE FINANCIAL AID COUNSELOR

Let the counselor know about any unusual circumstances such as a separation, divorce, elderly dependents in the home, high medical expenses, or other family members in college. They will help you get the most assistance available - but only if they really know your situation.

MAKE A LIST OF YOUR QUESTIONS AHEAD OF TIME

HOW DO I APPLY FOR FINANCIAL AID

FILE THE FREE APPLICATION FOR FEDERAL STUDENT FINANCIAL AID (FAFSA)

This form is used by the federal government and all colleges to evaluate your personal family financial situation. Some private colleges may, in addition, use a slightly different form called the "Profile". Information such as family income, assets, debts, non-taxable benefits, family size and much more must be entered on one of these forms. All of this information is kept strictly confidential and is necessary to establish your eligibility for financial aid. The form can be obtained at your college financial aid office. Your college may also have a form of its own that they will require.

Complete these forms as early as you can prior to when you want to begin school. This will help determine your eligibility for funds early and help the college get them to you faster so you can pay your bills. You must complete new forms for each academic year (July 1 through June 30), or part which you attend.

You can complete the FAFSA on line, using the NY Mentor website, or directly via www.fafsa.ed.gov.

After you complete the form, use the addressed envelope that is included with the application packet to send it to the processing office. This office uses the information to calculate your eligibility for all of the various Federal student aid programs. They will send this information to your school and to you. The entire process can take four weeks or longer, so you'll want to do this as far ahead of class registration as possible. March or April is an ideal time right after you finish doing your income tax forms.

RECEIVE THE STUDENT AID REPORT (SAR)

You will receive a document called a Student Aid Report or "SAR". This confirms the exact information that was used to calculate your eligibility. This is an important opportunity to review the information you provided and make any corrections in your information or possible data entry errors before this information is used.

If you need to correct information on the Student Aid Report, you may either do it right on the form itself and return it to the processing office, or the college may be able to do it for you. Check with your college financial aid office before making corrections to see if they can do it faster and easier for you.

When you look at page one of your correct Student Aid Report, there will be a number at the top right called an "EFC". This is the Expected Family Contribution calculated from all of the financial information you reported. [If it is less than $2,100, you are financially eligible for a Pell Grant and, possibly, for other financial aid as well. If it is higher than $2,100, you may have to consider an educational loan to help with expenses.]

Keep your copy of the Student Aid Report (SAR) in case your school financial aid office requests it. If you include a college in NYS on the list of schools in Step 5 of the FAFSA, you will be sent a preprinted Express TAP Application by HESC. Complete and return this form to apply for the NYS Tuition Assistance Program. You will then be sent an Award Certificate showing your TAP eligibility.

Sometimes you will be asked to verify the information on the Student Aid Report. This process will require you to submit additional information to the financial aid office at your school. Usually, this includes a Verification form and signed copies of your federal tax return.

OBTAIN AN APPLICATION FOR AID FOR PART-TIME STUDY (APTS) AND FILE IT WITH YOUR SCHOOL

This application requires information from your New York State Tax Return to help determine your eligibility. Because a limited amount of funding is provided to each school for this program, each school determines who among their financially eligible applicants will receive these funds. The earlier you can file this application, the better!

YOU MAY RECEIVE AN AWARD LETTER FROM YOUR SCHOOL

If the school you are going to attend is able to provide you with financial aid or if they believe you are eligible for certain aid programs, they will send you an Award Letter. This is a formal notice from the college listing the programs for which they believe you are eligible. The Award Letter may list both grants and loans. It is recommended that you call the financial aid office to discuss this information with them.

KEEP A COPY OF EVERYTHING

Keep a file folder of photocopies of all forms you fill out and correspondence you receive about your financial aid. For both questions during the current year and completing new applications in the following year, this can be a major help to both you and the financial aid office.

FOR 2000-2001 STUDENT FINANCIAL AID

Apply for financial aid every year. Financial aid programs change. Changes in your situation affect your eligibility. If you have received financial aid in the previous year, you will be sent (a) renewal application(s).

WHAT IS STUDENT FINANCIAL AID AND WHO PROVIDES IT?

Financial aid from the federal government consists of Federal Pell Grants, Work-Study, Perkins Loan, Supplemental Education Opportunity Grants, and the federal loan programs which include the Stafford Loans, and PLUS Loans.

New York State financial aid consists of the Tuition Assistance Program (TAP), Aid for Part-Time Study (APTS), scholarships and other awards. College-based financial aid consists of institutional grants, scholarships, work programs, and loans.

YOUR CHECKLIST FOR SUCCESS

Get the right applications. Contact your high school counselor or the Financial Aid Office at the college or school to which you have applied. Some colleges also have their own financial aid application. Make sure you complete all required applications. The 2001-2002 applications will be available by December of 2000.

Complete your applications. For you will need this information:

-  Prior year's W-2 forms, or end-of-year pay stubs;
-  Records of prior year's untaxed income, such as child support and untaxed income from such agencies as: Social Services, Social Security, and the Veterans Administration;
-  Prior year's Federal and State income tax forms for you, your parents and your spouse; and
-  Bank account balances, lists of stocks, bonds and other assets, and the estimated value and mortgage balance of your other real estate (not including your home).

Meet the deadlines. Check with each school to get its deadline. To meet the deadline, you can file your financial aid applications using estimated income (if your tax forms have not been completed). Accurate, estimated income figures may be taken from end-of-year pay stubs or W-2 forms.

Attend financial aid workshops. Usually sponsored by the Guidance Office, they are held during the school year. They can provide valuable information and assistance in filling out the forms, and finding out about local scholarships and awards.

Application form workshops are also held during January and February. Talk to your high school guidance counselor or local college financial aid administrator to find out the dates and locations.

Ask the professionals. If you have questions, contact the financial aid administrator at the college you plan to attend, or your high school counselor. Those professionals have the latest information and are available to assist you.

Don't pay for financial aid information that you can get for free—see your guidance counselor, college advisor, or visit the World Wide Web at: www.finaid.org or www.mapping-your-future.org

WHICH APPLICATIONS DO YOU USE?

To begin your financial aid process and to apply for federal financial aid, you must complete a "Free Application for Federal Student Aid" (FAFSA). The FAFSA is provided by the United States Department of Education. Get a FAFSA from your guidance office or the college Financial Aid Office, or access it through the world wide web at <http://www.fafsa.ed.gov>. If you completed a FAFSA for 2000-2001, you will receive a renewal FAFSA for 2001-2002. The FAFSA makes specific references to federal income tax forms. Have the tax forms handy, if completed, when filling out the FAFSA. If you estimate, be reasonable. Your college may ask for copies of your tax forms.

Once the FAFSA is processed, you will receive a Student Aid Report (SAR) or a Correction FAFSA. Follow the instructions carefully and provide any missing information. If requested, take or send the SAR to your college Financial Aid Office. Keep a copy for your records.

To get New York State financial aid, include your New York school of choice in College List Section of the FAFSA. HESC will send you a pre-printed TAP application based on your FAFSA information, after your FAFSA is processed. If you received TAP in the prior academic year, you will be sent a simple renewal form after your FAFSA is processed.

THERE IS NO FEE FOR A TAP APPLICATION OR A FAFSA

To complete the Express TAP Application, have your completed New York State tax forms handy. If you haven't done your taxes, you can estimate income. You must report any income changes, based on the tax forms that you file, to HESC. Be sure to enter a Higher Education Services Corporation (HESC) school code for each term you will be attending in the Express TAP Application.

After you submit the Express TAP Application, you will get a HESC TAP/State Scholarship Award Certificate. Check it over carefully. Send any corrections to HESC. Keep the final Award Certificate. Your college Financial Aid Office or Registrar may require you to present it at the time of registration.

The college Financial Aid Office will send you an Award Letter, detailing all the aid you are eligible to receive, based on your applications. Accept or decline the offer of aid by replying by the deadline date. Supply any additional requested documents.

To apply for a Federal Family Education Loan (student or parent loans), you must submit a FAFSA and complete a loan application. Contact the Financial Aid Office, a bank or other lender to receive a loan application. The Financial Aid Office may send you a loan application.

Complete the loan application only if you need to borrow. Take or send it to the college Financial Aid Office or follow the special instructions from your college.

WHAT'S NEXT?

Complete and sign all of the required applications. Your parents, and, if you are married, your spouse may also have to sign the applications. Make photocopies before you mail in your applications for processing. Mail the applications in time to meet your college's application deadline dates, but not before January 1, 2001. Supply any requested information as soon as possible.

Up to now we have been discussing how to pay for your costs. You may also have been discussing how to pay for college at the same time. It is possible to have two children in college at the same time. This means that the total cost; but

WHAT IF I HAVE CHILDREN IN COLLEGE TOO?

While the eligibility formula considers the number of children in college and reduces the expected family contribution for each additional member in college. The formula also simultaneously increases the eligibility for a Pell Grant for all family members in college.

Generally, an Expected Family Contribution is calculated for the family of each student financial aid applicant. If there is only one family member in college, this is the contribution that would be expected from the family for one year of college. If the Expected Family Contribution was $3,000 for a family with one person in college, they would be expected to contribute the full $3,000 for that student.

If you had two family members in college, the Expected Family Contribution would be divided by two (the number in college). For example, if your Expected Family contribution were $3,000 and you had two in college, the contribution for each student could be $1,500. With three in college, the Expected Family Contribution of $3,000 could be divided by three ($1,000 per student in college).

In the first example, our family with one in college not only had a big contribution, they were not eligible for a Pell Grant. In the other two families, not only did their Expected Family Contribution for each family member drop, they were all eligible for a non-repayable Pell grant as well.

Remember, each of these family members must carry six or more credits of study in a degree program to qualify as a family member in college. So, do not hesitate to consider attending college even if you have more than one family member attending also.

If family members attending college are living at home, it may not cost that much more to have two in college since the only additional expense may be tuition and books. If you can receive assistance to help cover these costs, you can literally have two in college for little more than the cost of one!

The down side to this is that you must complete separate financial aid application materials for each college student in the family. Each student attending college must complete:

- ☞ A Free Application for Student Financial Aid (FAFSA)
- ☞ A NYS Tuition Assistance Program (TAP) Application
- ☞ Part-time students should complete the Aid for Part-Time Study (APTS) application

KEY POINTS...When more than one is in college:

- Your eligibility for financial aid may increase
- Each family member in college must file application materials
- Each family member should be in a degree program
- Your costs may not be much higher than for one in college

ARE SPECIAL FINANCIAL CIRCUMSTANCES CONSIDERED

Other special financial circumstances may also affect your eligibility for financial assistance. In general, special circumstances may include things like: a long and expensive illness or hospital costs, a long layoff from work, unemployment, divorce or separation, and death of a wage earner.

If you believe that you have a special or unusual circumstance which should be considered, be certain to speak with a financial aid counselor to find out how to show these facts on your application materials and increase your eligibility for assistance.

In the event of layoff or unemployment, you may also be eligible for special retraining funds from the Department of Labor. You have been paying for these programs with your taxes while you were working, so don't hesitate to inquire about these monies if you become laid off or unemployed.

WHAT OTHER WAYS CAN I CUT COSTS

TRANSFER COURSES

If you have taken courses at more than one college, transferring courses from one school to another could save you time and money: time you do not have to spend taking some of the same courses and money that you will not have to pay to re-take courses similar to those you have already taken.

CHALLENGE COURSES

One way to save time and money is to challenge a course. Many colleges will allow students to "challenge" a course by taking the test without taking the course. For example, you may be asked to take a math course, but you are pretty good at math and feel you already know the material in the course. You could take a test based on the course and by passing the test receive credit for the course. The cost for taking the test is much less than the tuition cost of the course.

TAKE EXAMINATIONS FOR COLLEGE CREDIT

There are a variety of different examinations for credit programs available such as the College Level Examination Program (CLEP), the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), and the Examination Program at Regents College. Each of these testing programs offer a variety of different subject examinations and may earn you credit for several courses by successfully completing a single exam. If you have prior learning which has not earned college credit, check with your college Admission or Registrar's Office to learn if one of these programs is right for you.

OBTAIN COURSE CREDIT FOR LIFE EXPERIENCE

Another way to get course credit and save money is to get credits for life experiences. By discussing your options with a college counselor, you may find that your life experiences through work or leisure activities are worth college credit. This will help you accumulate course credits at a lesser cost, as well as get you through the program more quickly.

MATRICULATE IN A DEGREE PROGRAM AT LEAST HALF-TIME

Matriculation simply means being officially accepted into a program leading to a specific degree. Half-time by both the federal and State Government's standards is taking between three and eleven credits each term. Matriculation and half-time study are key eligibility requirements for most forms of government student financial assistance.

By using these options and working closely with a counselor at the college, you probably will get more out of these financial assistance programs than you had expected.

HOW DO I APPLY?

Complete and submit the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). You can get a FAFSA from a high school guidance office, the local library, or your college's Financial Aid Office. You can also file your FAFSA electronically at www.fafsa.ed.gov.

If you are a New York State resident and include a New York school in "Step 6" of your FAFSA, HESC will mail you an Express TAP Application (ETA). Information from your FAFSA and your family's calculated New York Net Taxable Income will be preprinted on your ETA. Review this information, change any incorrect items, complete any missing items, then SIGN AND MAIL THE FORM USING THE RETURN ENVELOPE. If you received TAP in the 1999-2000 year, and your information remains the same, you may not need to file the ETA to receive an award.

The final filing deadline for TAP is May 1 of the academic year for which aid is sought (Example: for 2000-2001, application deadline is May 1, 2001).

LOOKING FOR AN EASY WAY TO SAVE FOR COLLEGE AND SAVE ON TAXES?
NEW YORK'S COLLEGE SAVINGS PROGRAM COULD BE THE ANSWER.

Anyone – a parent, grandparent, relative or friend – can set up an account for a future college student. You can even set up an account for yourself.

There are no restrictions based on age, income, or state of residence. An account owner sets up an account for a specific beneficiary. Contributions to the account are invested in special age-based investment portfolios that include stocks, bonds, and/or money market instruments. After the account has been open for 36 months, the account owner can withdraw money to pay for the qualified higher education expenses of the beneficiary.

The program provides significant tax advantages. New York taxpayers can deduct the full amount of their contributions, up to $5,000 per year, from their New York taxable income. A husband and wife can each deduct up to $5,000 per year, for a total annual deduction of $10,000, of contributions to their own separate accounts. While in the account, earnings are exempt from New York State and federal taxes. Withdrawals used for qualified higher education expenses are also exempt from New York income tax. Federal taxes will be due on the earnings portion of such withdrawals, but are payable at the beneficiary's rather than the account owner's federal tax rate.

Use the money in the account to pay tuition and other qualified higher education expenses at any eligible public or private college or university, trade, vocational or professional school anywhere. Other qualified higher education expenses include fees, eligible room and board, books, supplies, and required equipment.

Open an account with as little as $25. Account owners can also make regular contributions of $25 per month through electronic funds transfer from their bank account or $15 per paycheck through payroll deduction.

Governor George E. Pataki's Higher Education Services Corporation and State Comptroller H. Carl McCall jointly oversee the Program. The Program's investments are managed by TIAA, a part of TIAA-CREF, a leading financial services organization with an established reputation for offering superior investment management.

SUMMARY TIPS

These tips are a collection of the best general advice that experienced Financial Aid Counselors recommend to help you get through the financial aid application process easily and effectively. Remember, if you have questions about specific application procedures or requirements at your school, check with your school's Financial Aid Office.

- ☞ Know the deadline dates for admission applications and financial aid forms. To get the best help, apply by these dates.
- ☞ Make sure all applications are complete and correct. Follow directions carefully. Make copies of all applications for your records.
- ☞ Be a degree student. There is no additional cost to be a degree student except the admissions application fee and the financial aid possibilities are much greater.
- ☞ If you are seriously considering a college, make an appointment with the Admissions Office and the Financial Aid Office. Call ahead to make sure the people you want to talk to will be available. Bring copies of your latest State and Federal income tax returns to help the Financial Aid Officer estimate your eligibility for aid.
- ☞ Keep copies of all applications and award notices and records of when you sent applications so you have a personal record of these transactions.
- ☞ It is not necessary to wait until filing your taxes before filing a financial aid application. Estimate amounts, if necessary. Remember, you may be asked later to verify the accuracy of your information, correct it if necessary, and prove its accuracy with documents such as tax returns.
- ☞ Respond quickly and completely to requests for additional information.
- ☞ Review all information carefully. If you have questions - ASK. But, make sure you ask a professional, not a neighbor or friend.
- ☞ Make sure you get commitments of admission or financial aid in writing. Do not rely on someone's promise.
- ☞ Know all of your expenses and do not forget to add in costs for books, transportation, and incidentals.
- ☞ All financial aid applications must be submitted each year.
- ☞ You can save expenses by challenging a course, seeking course credit for life experiences, or even taking advanced placement exams. Ask your academic advisor about these options.
